Item 10: RISK FACTORS

10.1 General Risks

There are certain risks inherent in an investment in the securities and in the activities of the Issuer, which investors should carefully consider before investing in the Securities. The following is a summary only of some of the risk factors. Prospective purchasers should review the risks relating to an investment in the securities with their legal and financial advisors.

The Issuer advises that prospective purchasers should consult with their own independent professional legal, tax, investment and financial advisors before purchasing the securities in order to determine the appropriateness of this investment in relation to their financial and investment objectives and in relation to the tax consequences of any such investment.

In addition to the factors set forth elsewhere in this Offering Document, prospective purchasers should consider the following risks before purchasing the securities. Any or all of these risks, or other as yet unidentified risks, may have a material adverse effect on the Issuer's business, and/or the return to the purchasers.

10.2 Investment Risks

Securities are Speculative - The securities offered hereunder must be considered highly speculative and an investment in such securities involves a high degree of risk. A potential subscriber should carefully consider the following risk factors in addition to the other information contained in this Offering Document before purchasing securities. Due to the nature of the business and the present stage of development of its business, the Issuer may be subject to significant risks. The Issuer's actual operating results may be very different from those expected as at the date of this Offering Document, in which the event the trading price of the securities could decline, and a subscriber may lose all or part of his or her investment. The risk factors outlined below are not a definitive list of all risk factors associated with an investment in the securities offered hereunder and investors are cautioned that they may lose their entire investment.

Restrictions on Transfers; No Public Market - There is presently no public market for the securities, and none is expected to develop in the foreseeable future. The securities are subject to substantial restrictions on transfer under securities laws and the Articles of the Issuer. Accordingly, the securities may not be resold or otherwise transferred, except in accordance with the Articles of the Issuer or in accordance with such applicable Canadian securities laws. (See Item 12 – Resale Restrictions).

Value of Securities of the Issuer - The price for securities of the Issuer is determined by management and may not bear any relationship to earnings, book value or other valuation criteria.

Tax Matters - The return on a shareholder's investment in his/her or its securities is subject to changes in Canadian Federal and Provincial tax laws, as well as any other tax laws applicable to the shareholders. There can be no assurance that the tax laws will not be changed in a manner which will fundamentally alter the tax consequences to investors of holding or disposing of the securities.

Dilution - After completion of the Offering, existing shareholders may have their interests diluted. The exercising of outstanding stock options or warrants shall also have a dilutive effect on the interests of the new purchasers of the securities. Moreover, in the event the Issuer requires additional equity financing pursuant to the securities offered under the Offering, purchasers of the additional securities may experience further dilution to the extent that such securities may be issued for a value less than the price paid for conversion of shares acquired hereunder.

10.3 Issuer Risks

No assurance - There is no guarantee that the Issuer will achieve its investment objective or earn a positive return.

Management and Personnel Risks - The Issuer's business will be significantly dependent on the Issuer's management team including outside management advisors and consultants. The loss of the Issuer's officers, other employees, advisors or consultants could have a material adverse effect on the Issuer. The Issuer's success depends, in part, on its ability to attract and retain key, technical, management and operating personnel, including consultants and members of the Issuer's Board. The Issuer needs to develop sufficient expertise and add skilled employees or retain consultants in areas such as research and development, sales, and marketing in order to successfully execute its business plan. The Issuer may be unable to attract and retain qualified personnel or develop the expertise needed in these areas. If the Issuer fails to attract and retain key personnel it may be unable to execute its business plan and its business could be adversely affected. As of the date of this offering, the Issuer does not maintain key man insurance on any member of its management.

No History of Dividends or Plan to Pay Dividends - The Issuer has never paid a dividend nor made a distribution on any of their securities. Further, the Issuer may never achieve a level of profitability that would permit payment of dividends or other forms of distribution to its shareholders. Given the stage of the Issuer's business, it will likely be a long period before the Issuer could be in a position to declare dividends or make distributions to its investors. The payment of any future dividends by the Issuer will be at the sole discretion of the Issuer's management. Holders of eligible shares will be entitled to receive dividends only when, as, and if, declared by the Issuer's Board.

Inability to Manage the Potential Growth of the Business - The Issuer may be subject to growth-related risks including capacity constraints and pressure on its internal systems and controls. The ability of the Issuer to manage growth effectively will require it to continue to implement and improve its operations and financial systems and to expand, train, and manage its employee base. The inability of the Issuer to deal with potential growth could have a material adverse impact on its business, operating results, financial condition or profitability. Any expansion of operations the Issuer may undertake will entail risks; such actions may involve specific operational activities, which may negatively impact the profitability of the Issuer. Consequently, shareholders must assume the risk that (i) such expansion may ultimately involve expenditures of funds beyond the resources available to the Issuer at that time, and (ii) management of such expanded operations may divert management's attention and resources away from any other operations, all of which factors may have a material adverse effect on the Issuer's present and prospective business activities.

Further Need for Debt or Equity Financing - The Issuer may have to sell additional securities including, but not limited to, shares or some form of convertible security, the effect of which will result in a dilution of the equity interests of any existing shareholders. The Issuer may also need to raise capital by incurring long term or short-term indebtedness in order to fund its business objectives. This could result in increased interest expense or decreased net income. Security holders are cautioned that there can be no assurance as to the terms of such financing and whether such financing will be available. Moreover, the Issuer's articles do not limit the amount of indebtedness that the Issuer may incur. The level of the Issuer's indebtedness could impair its ability to obtain additional financing in the future on a timely basis to take advantage of business opportunities that may arise.

Development Stage of Business Risks - The Issuer has only a limited history upon which an evaluation of its prospects and future performance can be made. The Issuer's proposed operations are subject to all business risks associated with new enterprises. The likelihood of the Issuer's success must be considered in light of the problems, expenses, difficulties, complications and delays frequently encountered in connection with the expansion of a business, operation in a competitive industry and the development of a customer base. There is a possibility that the Issuer could sustain losses into the future. If the Issuer is unable to generate revenues or profits, investors might not be able to realize returns on their investment or prevent the loss of their investment.

Forward-Looking Statements and Information May Prove Inaccurate - Investors are cautioned not to place undue reliance on forward-looking statements and information. By its nature, forward-looking statements and information involves numerous assumptions, known and unknown risks and uncertainties, of both a general and specific nature, that could cause actual results to differ materially from those suggested by the forward-looking statements and information or contribute to the possibility that predictions, forecasts, or projections will prove to be materially inaccurate.

Competition Risks - If the Issuer fails to compete effectively against larger, more established companies with greater resources, then its business may suffer. There can be no assurance that the Issuer's current or future products or services and the results of the Issuer's ongoing research and development efforts will result in products or services that will be viable for any commercial applications and, if viable, that potential customers will utilize the Issuer's products and services for the purposes intended. Increased competition may result in price reductions, reduced gross margins and loss of market share, any of which could materially and adversely affect the Issuer's business. The Issuer may not be able to compete successfully against current and future competitors and the failure to do so would harm the Issuer's business.

Cyber security risk - Cyber security risk is the risk of loss and liability to an organization resulting from a failure or breach of the information technology systems used by or on behalf of the organization and its service providers, including incidents resulting in unauthorized access, use or disclosure of sensitive, regulated or protected data. The use of the internet and information technology systems by the Issuer and their service providers may expose the Issuer to potential loss or liability arising from cyber security incidents.

Litigation risk - The Issuer may be subject to litigation arising out of its operations. Damages claimed under such litigation may be material, and the outcome of such litigation may materially impact the Issuer's respective operations, and the value of the shares. While the Issuer will assess the merits of any lawsuits and defend such lawsuits accordingly, the Issuer may be required to incur significant expense or devote significant financial resources to such defenses. In addition, the adverse publicity surrounding such claims may have a material adverse effect on the Issuer's operations.

General Economic Conditions - The financial success of the Issuer may be sensitive to adverse changes in general economic conditions in Canada, such as war, terrorist attacks, recession, inflation, labour disputes, demographic changes, weather or climate changes, unemployment and interest rates. There is no assurance that the Issuer will be successful in marketing any of its products, or that the revenues from the sale of such products will be significant. Consequently, the Issuer's revenues may vary by quarter, and the Issuer's operating results may experience fluctuations.

Management Discretion as to Application of Proceeds – The net proceeds from this Offering will be used for the purposes described under “Item 7: USE OF FUNDS”. The Issuer reserves the right to use the funds obtained from this Offering for any general business purposes and such other purposes not presently contemplated which it deems to be in the best interests of the Issuer and its shareholders. As a result of the foregoing, the success of the Issuer may be substantially dependent upon the discretion and judgment of the Issuer's management with respect to application and allocation of the net proceeds of the Offering. Investors will be entrusting their to the Issuer's management, upon whose judgment and discretion, the investors must depend.

US Sales Tax Payable – The Issuer sells services on which US sales taxes may be levied, however the issuer has not set up a system, collected, nor paid sales tax on a timely basis. Due to complexions in cross border transactions derived from an e-commerce platform and the Issuer's lack of audited financials, The Issuer has also not registered, collected, nor remitted any US sales taxes. If the Issuer were to pay state sales tax owing, potential interest, and arrears, now or in the future, the Issuer may not have sufficient cash reserves. Resulting risks could include, but are not limited to, potential insufficient cash reserves which may result in a need for financing which may increase debt outstanding or dilute shareholders, each state's current and future enacted tax policies, as well as exposure to changes in the USD-CAD currency exchange rate.

Dependence on the Property – The Company is an exploration stage company and as such does not anticipate receiving revenue from its mineral properties for some time. The Company will be solely focused on the exploration and development of the Property, which does not have any identified mineral resources or reserves. Unless the Company acquires additional property interests, any adverse developments affecting the Property could have a material adverse effect upon the Company and would materially and adversely affect any profitability, financial performance and results of operations of the Company.

Mineral exploration and development involves a high degree of risk and few properties that are explored are ultimately developed into producing mines. There is no assurance that the Company's mineral exploration and development programs at the Property will result in the definition of bodies of commercial mineralization. There is also no assurance that even if commercial quantities of mineralization are discovered that Property will be brought into commercial production. Failure to do so will have a material adverse impact on the Company's operations and potential future profitability. The discovery of bodies of commercial mineralization is dependent upon a number of factors, not the least of which is the technical skill of the exploration personnel involved. The commercial viability of a mineral deposit once discovered is also dependent upon a number of factors, some of which are the particular attributes of the deposit (such as size, grade and proximity to infrastructure), metal prices and government regulations, including regulations relating to royalties, allowable production, importing and exporting of minerals and environmental protection. Most of the above factors are beyond the Company's control.

Exploration, Development and Production Risks – The exploration for and development of minerals involves significant risks, which even a combination of careful evaluation, experience and knowledge may not eliminate. Few properties that are explored are ultimately developed into producing mines. There can be no guarantee that the estimates of quantities and qualities of minerals disclosed will be economically recoverable. With all mining operations there is uncertainty and, therefore, risk associated with operating parameters and costs resulting from the scaling up of extraction methods tested in pilot conditions. Mineral exploration is speculative in nature and there can be no assurance that any minerals discovered will result in an increase in the Company's resource base.

The Company's operations will be subject to all of the hazards and risks normally encountered in the exploration, development and production of minerals. These include unusual and unexpected geological formations, rock falls, seismic activity, flooding and other conditions involved in the extraction of material, any of which could result in damage to, or destruction of, mines and other producing facilities, damage to life or property, environmental damage and possible legal liability. In addition, operations are subject to hazards that may result in environmental pollution, and consequent liability that could have a material adverse impact on the business, operations and financial performance of the Company.

Substantial expenditures are required to establish ore reserves through drilling, to develop metallurgical processes to extract the metal from the ore and, in the case of new properties, to develop the mining and processing facilities and infrastructure at any site chosen for mining. Although substantial benefits may be derived from the discovery of a major mineralized deposit, no assurance can be given that minerals will be discovered in sufficient quantities to justify commercial operations or that funds required for development can be obtained on a timely basis. The economics of developing precious metals and other mineral properties is affected by many factors including the cost of operations, variations in the grade of ore mined, fluctuations in metal markets, costs of processing equipment and such other factors as government regulations, including regulations relating to royalties, allowable production, importing and exporting of minerals and environmental protection. The remoteness and restrictions on access of properties in which the Company has an interest will have an adverse effect on profitability as a result of higher infrastructure costs. There are also physical risks to the exploration personnel working in the terrain in which the Company's properties will be located, often in poor climate conditions.

Mineral Resources and Reserves - Because the Company has not defined or delineated any resource or reserve on any of its properties, mineralization estimates for the Company's properties may require adjustments or downward revisions based upon further exploration or development work or actual production experience. In addition, the grade of ore ultimately mined, if any, may differ from that indicated by drilling results. There can be no assurance that minerals recovered in small-scale tests will be duplicated in large-scale tests under on-site conditions or in production scale. Unless otherwise indicated, mineralization figures presented in this Prospectus are based upon estimates made by the Company, personnel and independent geologists. These estimates are imprecise and depend upon geological interpretation and statistical inferences drawn from drilling and sampling analysis which may prove to be unreliable.

There can be no assurance that these estimates will be accurate; resource or other mineralization figures will be accurate; or such mineralization could be mined or processed profitably.

Insufficient Resources or Reserves – Substantial additional expenditures will be required to establish either resources or reserves on mineral properties and to develop processes to extract the minerals. No assurance can be given that minerals will be discovered in sufficient quantities to justify commercial operations or that the funds required for development can be obtained on a timely basis or at all.

Title Matters, Surface Rights and Access Rights – The Property may be subject to prior unregistered agreements of transfer or indigenous land claims, and title may be affected by undetected defects. Until any such competing interests have been determined, there can be no assurance as to the validity of title of the Property and any other mining or property interests derived from or in replacement or conversion of or in connection with the claims comprising the Property or the size of the area to which such claims and interests pertain. The Company cannot guarantee that title to its mineral properties will not be challenged. Title insurance is generally not available for mineral properties and the Company's ability to ensure that it has obtained secure claim to individual mineral properties or mining concessions may be severely constrained. In areas where there are local populations or landowners, it is necessary, as a practical matter, to negotiate surface access. There is a risk that local communities or affected groups may take actions to delay, impede or otherwise terminate the contemplated activities of the Company. There can be no guarantee that the Company will be able to negotiate a satisfactory agreement with any such existing landowners/occupiers for such access, and therefore it may be unable to carry out significant exploration and development activities. In addition, in circumstances where such access is denied, or no agreement can be reached, the Company may need to rely on the assistance of local officials or the courts in such jurisdiction, which assistance may not be provided or, if provided, may not be effective. If the development of a mine on the Property becomes justifiable it will be necessary to acquire surface rights for mining, plant, tailings and mine waste disposal. There can be no assurance that the Company will be successful in acquiring any such rights.

Other Risks – In addition to the risk factors described throughout Item 10, in January 2020, the World Health Organization declared a Public Health Emergency of International Concern due to a novel virus (“COVID-19”) and in March 2020, declared it a pandemic. The global spread of COVID-19 has created significant worldwide operational and economic volatility, uncertainty, and disruption. The extent to which COVID-19 will impact the Company’s ability to raise the required capital to implement its proposed plans, as well as continue with its sales and marketing efforts, depends on certain developments, including but not limited to the duration and spread of the outbreak, impact on the Company’s customers and its sales cycles, and its ability to attract capital, all of which is highly uncertain, rapidly changing, and cannot be accurately predicted. Management is uncertain of the effects of these changes on its risks and there is uncertainty about the duration and potential impact of COVID-19 on the Company’s operations.

Item 11: REPORTING OBLIGATIONS

11.1 The Issuer is not a “reporting issuer” in any jurisdiction in Canada. 12.1 The securities you are purchasing are subject to a resale restriction. You may never be able to resell the securities.
